

Radio To Be Center of Attraction in Marion Homes Christmas, Is Forecast as Programs are Announced

"Children Snug In Bed?" Not If There's Room Around the Loudspeaker

By EARL R. McELROY
Marion Star Staff Writer

TWAS the night before Christmas, when all through the house
Not a creature was stirring, not even a house!
The children were gathered 'round the radio with care
While father and mother searched through the air—
Such will be the situation Monday

When Santa Claus makes his annual call to many Marion homes, instead of "The children were nestled all snug in their beds," as Clement Moore wrote in that famous poem, Mr. Claus is likely to find every member of the family wide awake listening to the strains of a beautiful Christmas carol from the loudspeaker of that new receiving set.

Since science has added the radio to its long list of benefits to mankind, Old Santa has been having one terrible time in arranging his calls at his millions of homes at a time when the last little lot has been bundled away in its bed.

Trade Union
Marion is going to enjoy a real radio Christmas. Dealers in the latest volume of receivers have reported exceptionally heavy business in the pre-holiday season. Father, usually driven almost frantic on the Christmas gift problem, entitled the master short notice this year by buying one of those fine super-whatchacallit radios for the entire family.

Center of Attraction
And then on Christmas morning, afternoon and night there will be almost the exact duplication of the scene that greeted Santa Claus the night before. Instead of the children playing on the floor with their toys, father smoking from that brand new box of cigars and wearing a new pair of house slippers while mother rubs around in the kitchen preparing one of those feasts that come but once a year, the entire family is gathered around that radio again.

And to help owners of those new sets thoroughly enjoy themselves, broadcasting stations have extended themselves in arranging beautiful programs for entertainment of fans the night before and Christmas day. The Yuletide spirit will prevail in every broadcast and every listener will have a wide variety of programs to choose from to make merry on Christmas.

Program Feature
Both the Columbia and National Broadcasting systems will enter into the holiday spirit and here are a few of the programs that will be put on the air:
Cook's Travelogue at 7 o'clock Monday night will carry radio listeners to London, where an inside view of the Christmas eve observance across the water will be given. This will be a WJZ network broadcast and featured by English Christmas music. Over the WEAF network the Voice of Firestone hour in its broadcast at 8 o'clock Monday night will feature one of the best known Holy Night tunes, "It Came on a Holy Night," by William.

Erno Rappe's "Christmas Bells," an excellent potpourri of the best known Christmas tunes arranged in the modern fashion, will be broadcast over the WEAF network at 8:30 o'clock Monday night by the A. and P. Gypsies.

Special Entertainment Planned by Broadcasters for Monday and Tuesday

Christmas music of Italy will be broadcast over the WJZ network during the Neapolitan Nights period at 9 o'clock Monday night.
There are a part of the programs that will form entertainment for Christmas eve radio listeners. Tuesday night the following outstanding broadcasts will be presented:

Special Music Program
Perhaps the outstanding program to be heard is the one to be presented by the Columbia Broadcasting System over its elaborate network of stations at 10 o'clock. The program, which includes 19 musical numbers, will call upon the services of a symphonic jazz orchestra, both men's and women's vocal choruses, soprano, tenor and baritone soloists.

At 10 o'clock over the same network, Frank Simonson's Show Boat will commemorate the holiday with a presentation of "The Night Before Christmas," a drama in three acts written by Hal Hedden.

The Morely singers for their broadcast over the WEAF network at 7 o'clock will present a program made up entirely of old Christmas carols. Various composers from Bach to Elgar and Strauss will be represented in the Christmas program to be presented on the WJZ network, at 10 o'clock as the Works of Great Composers series.

A Christmas story, without sleigh bells, without carols, without even the usual setting of a blizzard night and a driving blizzard—will be heard over the air when the Savoyland Sketch entitled "A Sea-Going Santa," is presented over the WEAF network at 7:30 o'clock.

A special arrangement of Tschalkowsky's piano "Concerto in B Flat Minor," will be played by the Metropolitan Orchestra as the opening selection of their Christmas program over the WEAF network at 8 o'clock.

Thirty minutes of dance music over the WEAF network at 10 o'clock will offer a pleasing variation to the Yuletide music. This program will be presented by the Chicago Club Exhilarators and includes the following numbers: "You're the Cream in My Coffee," "Down Home Boy" and a medley of "My Baby's Arms," "Whispering" and "Avalon."

Ritzy Rosalie

ROSALIE'S envelope purse will be flatter than it is fashionable for an envelope purse to be. If she does more than contemplate buying an umbrella or two for Christmas gifts, she doesn't think she can resist the temptation because it always rains and everybody can use an extra umbrella. She has her choice of the bulldog handle—he opens his mouth or rolls his eyes at the touch of a button, the crook handle with a pencil conveniently placed, the dignified and expensive Italian inlay type, hand decorated, the humorous looking duck, the birthday stomp-tipped handle, or the kind with the removable top for make up or cigarette.

ZIGGY SHOW FULL OF WHOOPEE, GIRLS

Eddie Cantor Comedian of Revue That is Starting New Yorkers

BY DAVID P. SPENCER
(Copyright by I. N. S., 1928)
NEW YORK, Dec. 21—Put short dresses on a rainbow, have a lightning sing a song of six pence, make it rain a pitter-patter of beauty drops, turn on the laughing gas—and you have "Whoopie," Flo Ziegfeld's long heralded and very latest musical score which has everything in it but the White House, the Ocean and the Alps.

Ziegfeld has spent enough on his latest production to furnish the apartments of Louis the Fourteenth. But he has also furnished his audiences with something to tell their grandies about.

"Whoopie" has more plot than a cemetery, more giggle than the king's unheeded jests, and more pretty faces in it than an art gallery of magazine covers.

The Ziegfeld girls this season should make the millionaires battle at the stage door for crumbs. These glorified maquettes of the show stop walk like goddesses and the less aristocratic Ziegfeld chorines dance like sprites.

The chorus girls took unsophisticated which is the youngest adjective I can draw from the well of admiration. And Ziegfeld has the tour de force of appearing in his dainty graduation dresses of pink and blue in early scenes.

But in the final passepant there is a Niagara of flashing flesh, with Godiva's astride pure white horses. It is a gorgeous scene lasting only a minute but bound to linger in the retina of the eye.

Eddie Cantor is not my favorite type of comedian. Dexterity which he made my ribs shake like a rubber band in a gale of laughter. Eddie has the funniest way of using his eyes, like a debutante looking over her first batch of eligibles. He also has the most ridiculous witfulness blending with his zany work.

Cantor makes an original transition from pale face to blackface. He dives in the oven of a store for comment and comes out scotched up for further comical action.

And George Olsen's band plays throughout like Sousa on the night war is declared. The audience saw the Ziegfeld carpet a terrible beating with their right feet tapping.

Ethel Shatta is a verile feminine personality and Mary Jane is the cutest, sunniest dancer one would hope to glimpse out of a woodland.

Frances Epton and Paul Gregory sing love songs at each other in satisfactory, romantic fashion.

The "Mission Rest" scene set in an Indian reservation is one of the loveliest cathedral effects ever produced on a stage.

Call me a "yes man." If you will, but I am convinced that "Whoopie" is the best double-teemum on Broadway since the Florida State line.

board their ankles. It is liable to run as long as the Mississippi.

CAPE COD GRAVEYARD FOR ANOTHER VESSEL

Provincetown, Mass. — Cape Cod, graveyard of many a proud vessel, claimed another victim when, at two year old fishing schooner, Virgilia, of Boston, was abandoned after all efforts to move her had failed. The masts, capstern, and cargo had been removed, and casks filled with air had been placed in the hold.

The schooner would not budge, her stern being imbedded in four feet of sand, and her hold filled with water.

"French Royalists Assail 'Three Star' Hennessy," reads a headline over a Paris story. To overcome the natural incredulity of readers, it may be well to state that the Hennessy who makes the stuff was assailed and not the stuff he makes.

A Chicagoan was run down and killed by a run-runner's truck loaded with Christmas boxes. Great Scott! Can't the run-runners get the people up there quickly enough with their machine guns and the stuff they sell, without wiping them out with trucks?

Workmen excavating at Kellinge, in Sweden, came upon the skeleton of a Greenland whale which is so large that they mistook it for the ribs of an ancient vessel, the jawbone alone measuring thirteen feet in length. Archaeologists estimate that the animal died over 5,000 years ago. This is what we call a whale of a story.

A New York woman, who had the courage of her convictions and wrecked a pool room in which she claimed her husband had been spending practically all his earnings for liquor, was bound over for trial, while the Chicago woman who told waste a candy store in which her daughter had been sold liquor was officially pulled on the back. All things even; we believe we prefer the Chicago method.

London announces that hope of saving the White Star liner, Cottic, which went on the rocks just outside Queenstown harbor, has been abandoned. And thus passes one of the most popular liners in the North Atlantic service, a vessel which has been as popular with the British as the America is with the people of the United States.

Following a lead developed from the papers of the late Arnold Rothstein, federal agents, Wednesday, seized a ton of narcotics, valued at $5,000,000, at the pier of the French liner, Rochembeau, making $7,000,000 worth of drugs thus far seized in the Rothstein case alone. It is hardly possible longer to question the fact that the trail of a big international narcotic ring has been uncovered as a result of the slaying of the New York gambler. Individuals do not often carry on criminal operations running into figures so high.

Passing of Theodore Roberts.
In a news story of the burial of all that was mortal of Theodore Roberts in Hollywood cemetery, this week, we find the following two paragraphs:

"Perhaps no artist of the film domain ever received a more heartfelt farewell than was bid to the famous actor.

"Virtually every celebrity of Hollywood bowed his head before the bier, and the great throng of flounders was only a portion of those who came unknown from the sidewalks and city homes.

There's a reason for such a tribute to the "Grand Old Man" of motion pictures. It is this: he represented all that is best alike of the stage and the screen. In his career of almost half a century before the public, he over and over again gave the best that was in him. Others might slight their parts, but it was the ambition of this fine actor to get the utmost out of each and every part he essayed, and his was a record of accomplishment. No matter what the make-up of the cast, his work stood out. "This was true of his work in the silent drama and true of his work in the spoken. We recall his appearance in "The Kroufiter Sonata," which was put on by one of the finest, most evenly-balanced, companies of stage history. It was not an all-star company, but far better than most all-star companies for the reason that, working as a whole for the best effect, it gave a smoother performance than is possible by an all-star company in which the stars are prone to remember that they are stars. And yet, even in that splendid production, his work was so strong, so convincing, that he easily divided honors with one of the greatest artists of his time, and his characterization comes back to us in amazing vividness despite the many passing years.

Theodore Roberts was one of the very, very few actors holding a life contract to appear on the screen. He did not hold such a contract without cause. The reason was, he was one of the few real actors presented to the public by the screen and stood almost alone in the respect that no matter what part assigned him, he entered into the portrayal with heart and soul that he might make the most of it.

Public Turns Against Filth.

New York advances are to the effect that the present season is easily the worst in the history of the stage. It is estimated that not over 2,000 of the 10,700 members of Equity, the actors' union, are working. Such has been the theatrical business in New York that sixty-one of the 104 productions opened there were forced to the wall between August 1 and December 15, with the result that literally thousands of stage people are walking the streets of the metropolis, looking for work. Nine shows closed there last Saturday night, adding the members of their casts to the job-hunting throng, and the majority of them hadn't been running long enough "to permit the odor of the fresh paint to evaporate from their scenery."

In addition to the nine shows mentioned, five others closed Saturday night for the present week, taking advantage of the Equity contracts which permit closing for the week before Christmas without paying salaries for the week, which is said to be a situation previously unknown in New York.

Commenting on the situation there, one New York manager said: "It would go out that 1 or any other producer had a play to cast with twenty parts, there would be 1,000 players on hand fighting for those twenty parts. The situation is awful."

Not only are the show people sufferers—producers, players, stage hands, electricians, to say nothing of musicians and others having some connection with the theater aside from the stage—but house-owners as well. Literally, millions of dollars have been lost in New York alone on the season this far.

About as many reasons for the wretched season are being offered as there are idle players, a preponderance of sex stuff, foul language, high prices of seats and the radio being "among them, but perhaps the most comprehensive, sizing-up of the situation is that of a leading producer, John Golden, who says:

"The trouble, aside from the fact that authors, actors and producers do not get together and fight the outside factors that are hurting the business—such as unfair labor laws, unjust taxation and ticket speculators—is this:

"The majority of Americans are more moral than immoral, and right now the majority of plays are more immoral than moral."

"We Americans are predominantly decent and clean. The majority of plays right now are far from being decent or clean, and with them we are earning people away from the theater."

There's the thing in a nutshell. We Americans may complain and still stand the high prices, but we will not stand for filth. A number of filthy plays may survive for a time, kept alive by the patronage of the filthy-minded, but when the great majority of the offerings are filthy there is bound to be long for the fifth supply overruns the demand, the majority of playgoers being decent-minded.

Never before has the stage so pandered to vulgarity, indecency, and lowdown as at present and never before has the economic out of the theatrical business been as low as now. The lesson "which producers may profitably learn is obvious."

If we are credit the testimony to the Alton divorce matter in New York, the husband of the complainant gained favor with "Peaches" Browning, the co-respondent, by presenting her a diamond bracelet. It must grill the elderly Mr. Browning to think of the thousands he burned to no avail to gain the plump young blonde's smiles.

Tamaheo, high chief and nominal king of the Sabian Islands, has been taken from Apla to New Zealand by the British to serve six months' imprisonment for refusing to pay his taxes of $12.50, the charge, against him being obstructing the police. Even in the far-away South Sea Islands civilization seems to be getting in its deadly work.

The Methodist ministers of Philadelphia and vicinity have passed a resolution in which it is urged that Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, of New York, be prohibited from contributing further to the Epworth Herald, official organ of the Methodist young people, and the editor was warned that, unless the writings of the leading modernist were barred, more drastic action would be taken. It was explained that the action was taken "to protect the youth of our church from the loss of their precious faith in Christ." From which we assume that another great offensive is about due in the war between the modernists and the fundamentalists.

A Disturbing Thought.

The disclosure during the course of the Smith outster hearing Thursday, that seven checks aggregating in amount $135 and signed by a state examiner had been found among the office effects of the missing recorder, will naturally occasion comment. The presence of the checks in the recorder's office, though known to some conversant with court house affairs, had escaped public attention for months owing to the unwillingness of those approached on the subject to speak for publication.

Now that the matter has become news, there is bound to be speculation on the part of the public regarding the worth of an examination of the office of a county official when such official holds checks signed by the state examiner making the examination.

A disturbing thought in connection with the matter is the possibility that the holding of such checks may not be limited to the office in which they were found; that possibly the holding of checks of state examiners may have been practiced in other county offices, not only in this county, but in other counties of the state.

The matter is one which should be given a thorough investigation.

A GOOD TIME IN THE MEANTIME.

Death Rate Remains High.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

This is a beautiful morning. As I write, my train is on the way from Detroit to Dexter, where I was born. To me, Michigan is a wonderful and a beautiful state.

What remarkable changes have taken place since I first traveled this route! Most remarkable of all is the improved public health and the lowered death rate.

The old cemeteries we pass tell the story of how the plagues suffered by Michigan was more fatal then than scarlet fever is today. Now we rarely hear of a case of malaria, let alone a death from it.

When my ancestors landed in Michigan, every last member of the family shook with the ague. Fortunately, not all of them had the attack on the same day. It was the "off day" for one or two of them, when the rest were suffering from chill, fever and sweat. The groups alternated in personal service as they did in illness.

It was thought then that a "miasm" poisoned the air, was the cause of malaria. It was decades later that the mosquito was discovered to be the carrier of the disease.

Dysentery, fever, typhoid, and smallpox were common afflictions. Child birth was associated with a terrifying death rate for mother and baby.

Go through these old cemeteries and read the inscriptions on the tombstones. You will be shocked to find how many young mothers and infant children gave their lives to the unsanitary and unsanitary conditions of that early day.

If the babies did not die the day of birth, a third of the survivors died within a year. Indeed, the average expectation of life was only forty years. There were centuries, of course, but they were the notable exceptions.

We have every reason to thank God and take courage. We are better off in a thousand ways than were those brave, old pioneers.

But there is much to learn from their lives. They had qualities and habits that are good for us to possess.

They were not afraid of the out-of-doors. They walked a lot. They exercised their muscles. They were in athletic trim all the time.

Our lives are too soft. We do not use our muscles, even those having to do with the chewing of food. The food itself is robbed of husk, covering and fibre. In consequence, the muscles of the intestinal walls have little to do. Constipation results.

We must not be too puffed up over the improvements of modern times. Great as they are, they have not made life any safer between the ages of thirty and sixty. In that period disease is just as fatal as it was a hundred years ago.

That is the time of life when strict attention should be given to rules of personal hygiene and conduct. Fresh air, sunlight, moderate exercise, plenty of sleep, simple food and temperate eating, cleanliness of the body, lots of water to drink and a contented mind—these are important at all ages, but they are absolutely essential between thirty and sixty.

Live a modified pioneer life during these years and old age will be a joy to you. You won't be a decrepit, toothless, rheumatic cripple in advanced life; if you live as you should between youth and old age. Copyright, 1928, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Twenty Years Ago.

It was Monday. The Standard Oil company announced that it was tired of being traduced and intended to begin proceedings for further libels. Andrew Carnegie, the "Laird of Skibo," advocated free steel and had the house ways and means committee chuckling when he appeared before it to explain his stand.

James Osborne, fifty, a Christian worker among the lowly, died from paralysis.

There was talk of asking the governor to remove Circuit Judge Michael Donnelly owing to his connection with the Ohio German Fire insurance company.

Frank L. Distman was made associate editor of the American Issue.

J. C. Anthony succeeded O. A. Busard, deceased, on the public service board.

D. Company was planning to attend the inauguration of Judson Harmon as governor of Ohio.

Mrs. Ella Williams was installed as worthy matron of Lydia Chapter, No. 33, Order of the Eastern Star.

Scott Town and Murrelles were enthusiastic for the construction of the proposed Flinday and Marion electric road.

Mrs. Carroll H. May and son, of Louisville, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hunt.

Editorial Opinion.

BETTER STEAMSHIP INSPECTION.

Commissioner Francis A. O'Neill in his official report on the sinking of the Vestris, which went down with the loss of 113 lives, finds that the United States is powerless to prosecute those responsible for the disaster. The Vestris was British-owned, and manned for the most part by citizens of foreign countries. The jurisdiction of the United States in nautical matters does not extend to them.

O'Neill expresses the opinion, however, that vessels having the same status as the Vestris had are nevertheless subject to inspection by American port authorities; that they are subject to American regulation respecting life-saving equipment and other matters affecting the safety of passengers. The practice under which foreign vessels have escaped these regulations is in the commissioner's opinion "without authority of law, dangerous to life and unfair to American seagoing vessels."

The opinion accords with common sense. The primary purpose of all these regulations is to protect American life. And the practice of allowing steamships under foreign registry to enter American ports and to pick up in them American passengers without extending to them the same protection that goes with sailing under a steamship flying the American flag is little short of ridiculous.

It has apparently been assumed by inspection officers that no responsible steamship company would fail to take proper precautions against the loss of life. But if the lifeboats and life-preservers on the Vestris were half as bad as reported, the owners of the ship were not only callous to their duty in matters affecting the safety of their passengers, but they were extremely shortsighted from the point of view of their own interests.

Under plans announced recently the Vanhan, sister ship of the Vestris, is to be subjected to careful inspection when she returns to the United States with the idea of securing further information as to the condition of the Vestris. If the American steamship inspection service is alert to its responsibility it will not stop with the Vanhan, but will permit no steamship to clear our ports which is not seaworthy, or which fails to make proper provision for the safety of passengers.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ANOTHER LEAGUE FIASCO.

While Sir Eric Drummond, secretary-general of the League of Nations, was rushing to Paris to discuss with Aristide Briand the future course of the council in connection with the Bolivian-Paraguayan clash, Chile brought Bolivia to its knees by a sharp diplomatic note. Sir Eric now go back to London. Aristide can take up again the German-Polish imbroglio and his other European concerns. The foreign office in Santiago has done what the League of Nations could not do, viz., convince the war party in La Paz that mediation by the American conference now in session in Washington is preferable to war.

The fragile efforts of the League council to save its prestige in South America were doomed from the first to fulfill. All the council could do was to remind Bolivia and Paraguay that it expected them, as members of the League, to settle their dispute amicably. A threat to apply sanctions to either country, if it displeased the league, would have raised the question of the Monroe doctrine, which the League prefers to let sleep. The disputants knew this. Which presumably accounts for their politely acknowledging the council's "warnings"—and then filing them. Chile was in a position to speak with more force, as Bolivia could hope to get war supplies only across Chilean territory. With that asset to the sea closed, war would have meant hard sledding for Bolivia, as its government has been quick to acknowledge.

With Bolivia agreeing to mediation, which Paraguay has all along been agreeable to, a prevention of further hostilities seems probable, at this time; but the ultimate removal of the cause of conflict depends on running a line between the two countries that will make it plain to each where its territory begins and ends. Only in that way will permanent peace be assured and the League of Nations relieved of the necessity of making itself ridiculous in the eyes of the world.—Detroit Free Press.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. MINTYRE.

New York, Dec. 21.—Thoughts while strolling: The apartment house where Edgar Saltus used to live. Nothing makes a fellow look so dressed up as a new pair of bright yellow gloves. Hatless squirts in coonskin coats. Eleven vocal studios in a block. And earmuffs are out of fashion.

Booking agents, acrobats and the off-haired boys who wear a fresh white silk shirt every day. William and Mattie Belle Johnston. Deems Taylor, a New York boy, who made good in the city. Those toney specialty shops with branches at Palm Beach and Newport. Means nothing, but looks grand on letter heads.

Red checked tablecloths and napkins "in again." Young loafers around the coffee pots. And autograph hounds around the stage doors. The Wyndham—a new literary hangout. Covarrubias, the Mexican caricaturist, who has the sleek look of a professional dancer.

Nothing looks so hopeless as an over-turned steam roller. Vanity Fair crownin shield. The circular window that casts the shadow of a noose over the entrance to a police station. Gray-haired men with colored collars and wide eyeglass ribbons. An expensive feast of bread pudding. And it's a dish.

Those $15 "Factory Rejected" clothing shops. Golf bags with umbrella attachments. Two truckloads of flowers—probably another gunman bit the dust. Whatever became of Mayor Hyland? Orchid-hued tire covers. Reckless sidewalk roller-skaters. Self-conscious husbands nailing Pokes and Poms. Jerome Peaky.

An old man in front of a window mirror removing something from his long beard—maybe it's a meadowlark. New York still buys those hookah bow ties. Usually something drowsy and desolate about a building where you once lived. Joseph Urban, a great artist who doesn't look the part. Frank Fay back on Broadway.

Those striking blondes who swath themselves in black—and sit demurely in hotel lobbies. Vincent Lopez's big diamond ring. The Japanese restaurant in the Fifties where you cook food at your own table. DeWolf Hopper as straight as an arrow. As Bugs Baer observed: "To know him is to marry him."

The average New Yorker sees little of its foreign language press. Most of these newspapers are sold on the congested East Side. And indication of their progress is shown in the recent sale of 11 Progresso Italiano-American for $2,052,000. Included in the polyglot array are four Arabic and three Slavonian journals, and the Chinese colony supports two dailies.

Broadway also supports a half hundred weekly and monthly midget periodicals devoted chiefly to "dishing the dirt." While a few are sustained by polite blackmail, the majority depend almost solely to those with an eager hunger for salacious gossip about the White Way and its big shots.

Swank waiters should find a target for their bricks in a hat shop which blandly announces "headgear for those listed in the Social Register." We bet most of the sizes are 65.

A late night arrival at Grand Central approached the driver of a disreputable-looking taxi and sneeringly inquired: "Do you think this cab will last until I reach my hotel?" "No," was the indifferent reply without even looking up from his tabloid. And, there being no other cab in sight, the gentleman walked.

The nighthawk taxi driver is the hardest of the hard-bolled babies, and he takes no back talk. His contact is chiefly with creatures of the night—drunks, gamblers, dope runners and those who prey. He is usually square shouldered, aquat, and there is little space between his eyebrows and bang of hair.

A philosopher "philosophes" that Broadway success is when, after years of hunger, everybody tries to make you guest of honor at free dinners you do not need.

"In heaven's name," queries an excited lady in one of those bold, angular fashionable boarding-school hands, "from what period did you come to journalism? You can hark back as far as grandpa."

The Pleiades Reign.

BY GARRETT F. SERVISS.

Go out of doors about 10 o'clock at night now and if the sky is clear you will see near the meridian, high in the south, the famous group of stars called the Pleiades. It is not their individual brightness that makes them so remarkable an object, for they are all small stars, but their singular appearance of being associated together in a glittering company which by the combination of its innumerable rays produces the effect of a shining swarm. Those who know the history of the Pleiades are likewise impressed by the reflection of their ancient renown. For there are no stars in the heavens that have been so long and so universally celebrated. Old legends connected them with the "Deluge," or with traditions of the beginning or the end of the world. When primal astronomy was a priestcraft the Pleiades played a foremost part in the superstitious observances of the early religions. From Chaldea to Mexico, from Egypt to the British isles, among Druids and sun and star worshippers of every variety, the Pleiades were ever a celestial arcana.

Curiously enough, modern science has revealed to us that this strange group of stars really has something mysterious concealed within it—though the mystery is purely physical and not at all occult in its nature. Not only is the group, as a whole, traveling together through space like a flock of migrating birds, but its stars are interlarded with a wonderfully complex system of nebulous clouds, streamers and spirals, which though invisible with telescopes alone, yet when pictured by powerful photographing instruments present perhaps the most amazing of all astronomical spectacles—not so grand as the Orion or the Andromeda nebula, but far more complicated and puzzling in their details. About all that can be said concerning this extraordinary phenomenon is that it has some essential connection with the life history of stars and the inter-relationship between them and nebulae.

On account of this universal renown of the Pleiades in both history and science, it is worth anybody's while to become acquainted with the group by seeing it in the sky, as can easily be done at this season by simply facing southward about 10 in the evening and raising the eyes toward the center of the sky, where the Pleiades will be distinguished, as before said, not by their brilliant stars, but by their forming a conspicuous little sparkling cloud of starry rays, which once seen never afterward be mistaken. The bright reddish star to the left or east of the Pleiades is Aldebaran, in the V-shaped figure of the Hyades. Farther toward the east and lower blaze the great stars forming Orion, especially Betelgeuse—orange—and Rigel—white—with the marvelous three-starred "belt" half way between them.

But, to return to the Pleiades. The old legends called them the daughters of Atlas, and the star of Atlas is seen at the left of the group, with that of Pleione, the mother of the Pleiad sisters, just above it. The chief of the sister stars is Alcyone, whose brilliance is enhanced by her three little attendant stars. Merope, Electra, Maia and Taygeta are all bright and easily visible, together with Alcyone and Atlas, to the naked eye. But Celaeno is relatively faint, and the beautiful little pair called Asterope is with difficulty distinguished without a glass. But a good opera-glass or field-glass shows them all, together with the multitude of smaller stars around them.—Copyright, 1928, International Feature Service, Inc.

The Way of the World.

BY GARRY PATTERSON.

Let's not worry about the saturation point in business, whether we are producing motor cars or what not. Listen to Major Carson, of N. W. Ayer & Son, advertising people. He says:

"As long as men die and babies are born there will be an ever changing market. Six thousand new babies in the United States every day mean 25,000,000 new customers every ten years. There are about 1,000,000 marriages every year, meaning a new untouched market for homes and all their appurtenances.

"Changing styles are constantly creating new demands. The car you thought so wonderful this year will take a back seat for a new model in a new color next year. The same thing is true of sewing machines, lead pencils and vacuum cleaners. The American family is always ready to buy newer things."

Howard C. Dunn, of the United States Bureau of Commerce, tells store-keepers some facts about their business: "The facts come from analysis.

"One grocer," said Mr. Dunn, "carried forty-two kinds of tea, six of which made up half his total sales in tea.

"According to this grocer's trading area forty-three per cent. of his customers live within half a mile of his store and their purchases make up thirty per cent. of his sales. Analysis of his deliveries showed the minimum use of a truck was to deliver two cakes of yeast to a customer living three miles away.

"Analysis of toilet-goods sales in a city drug store for six months showed seventy-four per cent. of total sales made on 153 items of 474 carried.

"Idle merchandise stocks on the shelves of retailers constitute one of the outstanding wastes. Merchandise which sleeps on the shelves gradually accumulates costs, such as storage, interest, insurance, taxes, shrinkage, depreciation of obsolescence. Furthermore, it ties up a retailer's capital and depreciates his credit."

Few who read this column are grocers, but the idea, the principle is sound. It is to know where the money comes from and where it goes. It is very wise to know where our times go, what we are doing and why. The lack of analysis of our business and ourselves is one of the major reasons for failure.

It is a help to clear thinking to know rather definitely what you believe about the few important, fundamental matters of life. Would it not be a good thing if we were to write out our own philosophy of life, what we honestly think and believe about things? Not many of us would produce a piece of writing that any publisher would care to buy, but we would clarify our thinking and prepare ourselves for more thoughtful living. Few live thoughtfully.

Dinner Stories.

"And I want to tell you something now, mother, about Christmas."

"Well, John, what is it?"

"I want to tell you I'm on to this Santa Claus gag, and if I don't get a radio I'll put baby wise and spoil your old party."

Friend—"You think then that the heathens are slow to adopt the white-man's religion." Globe Trotter—"Yes. You see, they have to adopt his vices before they see the need of it."

"They say Boggs is crazy on the subject of golf and his wife is equally crazy over auction sales."

"Yes, and the funny part of it is they both talk in their sleep. The other night a lodger in the next flat heard Boggs shout 'Fore!' and immediately Mrs. Boggs yelled 'Four and a quarter.'"

YOUTHFUL NECKLINE

A deftly crossed scarf tie, slipped through bound openings, accents modern influence in its diagonal lines. A fitted neckline is emphasized by yoke of skirt with dip-in-the-front, which places the circular fullness low, to keep its line slender. It is unusual in that it is quite dressy, yet simple enough for all day wear, for the socially busy woman. The medium chosen is mauve-brown rayon velvet, with novel rings in beige scarf collar, belt and sleeve bows are of plain velvet in matching brown shade. It's a type that will make up splendidly in sheer tweed with soft fade silk crepe collar, lustrous crepe, satin with collar, belt, bows and hypocrite of reverse of crepe, canton crepe, dull flat silk crepe, and plain velvet. Style No. 2628 is designed in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Pattern price 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred). Our patterns are made by the leading Fashion Designers of New York City and are guaranteed to fit perfectly. In ordering pattern why not enclose 10 cents additional for a copy of our new Fashion Magazine. It shows the most attractive Winter styles. Also lovely suggestions for useful Xmas gifts, that will be truly appreciated, that you'll find very inexpensive to make.

COOLIDGE SIGNS BOULDER DAM BILL

Measure Becomes Law After Long Struggle of Years by Californians

Ceremony was Representative Smith, Republican of Idaho, chairman of the house irrigation committee, Dr. Elwood Mead, commissioner of reclamation, and W. B. Matthews, counsel for the Los Angeles bureau of power and light.

The special pen which Representative Smith brought to the White House for the president's use was mounted on an ornate block.

Publisher Young was to have been a witness to the signing, but the train on which he is coming to Washington will not reach here until tomorrow.

Uses Three Pens

Three pens in all were used by the president in signing the measure. He started his signature with the commemorative pen furnished by Congressman Swing, but broke it midway and completed the signature with two other pens, one of which went to Swing and the other to Senator Johnson.

After the president's signature was attached, there was handshaking all around, and the company retired to the south grounds of the White House to pose for a large battery of movie cameras.

The Boulder Dam bill reached the White House last night after having been reviewed and indorsed by the department of the interior and the budget bureau.

PARALLEL PARKING FAVORED BY CHIEF

Street Space Needed for Traffic Movement, Thompson Says

An automobile parked parallel to the curb takes only about half as much driving space as a car parked at a 90-degree angle to the curb. As a result a car double parked behind a row of diagonally parked machines extends nearly to the middle of any Marion street.

This condition will exist, Chief Thompson points out, as long as delivery trucks are allowed to double park to make deliveries and diagonal parking is continued. And since such double parking is frequently necessary through the front door of their stores there is no possibility of banning double parking for delivery trucks, he states.

HERE'S MORE ABOUT TODAY

Death is supposed to make death more terrible.

Mammalian has old-fashioned ideas and good ones. The new twenty-first piece, worth $1, bears an inscription worth many dollars: "Memento Vivere un Ghorro da Leone. Clu Cento Anni da Pecora," meaning "It is better to live one day like a lion than 100 years like a sheep."

It's hard to make a sheep believe it.

Vincent Rice, 37 years old, who killed a 16-year-old high school girl, is allowed to plead guilty to second degree murder. Alameda testified that the boy was suffering from a "purty complex," rendering him psychopathically abnormal. This is an unusual complaint. He said he murdered the girl because she wanted to kiss him.

AUSTRIA is poor, but manages to spend $113,000,000 a year for alcoholic drinks, $30 yearly for every Austrian. That will depress good prohibitionists. But the Austrians at least get "real stuff." How much do you suppose this country spends for liquor that enriches bootleggers and under-takers?

Our government spends more trying vainly to keep Americans from drinking than Austria spends for all its drinks.

The late Andrew J. White, president of Cornell and American ambassador to Germany, thought that the words "thou shalt not suffer a witch to live" had caused more cruelty, in the burning and torturing of old women, than any other words ever written.

Teachings of religion, misunderstood, still cause suffering and torment the helpless.

Mrs. Elizabeth Englehardt told a auditor, "My life merits the punishment of hell." Deteriorated that her boy, four years old, should go to heaven and be an angel, she lay down with the child in her arms and turned on the gas. Fortunately the child's cries saved them.

Millions are tormented by the belief, instilled from childhood, that they are doomed to eternal torture for doing that which is simply the irreducible result of heredity, going back fifty millions of years.

Funeral of Accident Victim To Be Held at Brush Ridge Home

H. Gunde funeral home, late this afternoon. Burial will be in Grand Prairie cemetery. Relatives requested that flowers be omitted.

Mr. Brown met instant death when the car in which he was riding, was struck by a southbound Pennsylvania freight train at the Bucyrus rd. crossing, north of the city. He was returning from a trip to Marion when the accident occurred.

of complete Christmas dinners, in addition to contributions of coal and clothing to specially needy families. The baskets will be on display from 12 to 2 p. m. Monday at the Salvation Army headquarters, 330 West Center st. Plans will also be given the sick and about 100 children will be made happy by the toys donated by local department stores after the Christmas sales.

The Red Cross is receiving donations of money for the poor, and, in addition to their own distribution of Christmas baskets, are taking care of the charity work of a number of smaller groups.

One other Marion organization which contributes largely to the poor throughout the winter months and at Christmas is the Eagles lodge. They will care for about 150 families at Christmas this year.

About 70 youngsters, including the pupils of the Marion school for crippled children, will be entertained by members of the Rotary club at their noon luncheon Monday at Hotel Harding. After dinner and an entertainment, each child will be presented a gift by the Rotarian who is acting as his host.

A Christmas party for youngsters of the Marion County Children's home was given by members of the Kiwanis club last night.

Fifty-five children from needy families were entertained at a party given by the Ohio Associated Telephone Co. employees last night at the Legion Dugout, South High st.

Similar activities are being carried on by smaller charitable groups and several parties for needy youngsters are being held before Christmas.

COLDEST DAY MARKS WINTER'S ARRIVAL

Monarch of Season Blusters into City with 30-Degree Drop

A drop of 21 degrees from the recorded mean average for all time. All Sections Shivering Columbus shivered in a temperature of nine degrees above zero while in Cleveland, where 12 degrees above zero was recorded, the coldest whiffled through the city. Toledo "dreaded" King Winter with a drop in temperature of 12 degrees above zero.

Marysville was as "hard hit" as Marion, the seven degrees above zero representing an overnight drop of 30 degrees and bringing Union county the coldest day of the winter.

Mercury Down to 4 in Chicago

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—The first day of winter, according to the calendar, was fittingly celebrated in Chicago today with the lowest temperature since last February.

The mercury dipped to 4 degrees above zero at 4 o'clock this morning, official reading at the federal building.

One death was attributed indirectly to the cold snap. Miss Mary Kinnear, 62, of Hollywood, suburb, was suffocated in a fire starting from an overloaded stove.

The extreme cold, general throughout the middle west, will moderate somewhat today and tomorrow, according to the weather bureau.

GIRL'S STORY BRINGS ONE TERM IN PRISON

unmarried and said "if you are not satisfied, I'll not come home." Mrs. Hickman said today that she was certain that the couple had never gone farther than Zanoville, where they were married by the Rev. James H. Kennedy, Dec. 15.

When they obtained their marriage license in probate court in Zanoville the Hickman girl gave her age as 21. In investigation of the court records revealed yesterday.

Henry and the Hickman girl were accompanied to Zanoville by Mrs. Monroe and an unidentified youth, both of whom witnessed the marriage ceremony and signed the marriage certificate.

According to reports this morning, Willis entered the case when he took the Hickman girl to Newark the day preceding the marriage. On Thursday, Dec. 13, Henry, Mrs. Monroe and the unidentified youth are said to have gone to Newark, picked up the Hickman girl and then went to Zanoville, where the marriage was performed.

Located Tuesday

According to Mrs. Hickman's story nothing was heard from the girl, with the exception of the letter, from the time she left until last Tuesday. She was located through a telephone call to an aunt, informing that she came and got her. The girl was found at Henry's room at 275 Chestnut st.

The girl said that she was afraid to come home without being married because other members of the party, including Henry, told her "that her mother had the police after her," according to Mrs. Hickman's story related to a reporter this morning.

Henry and Willis told court of facts this morning that they had the written consent of the girl's father to the marriage. Hickman claimed that through a telephone call she was induced to sign a written consent.

The consent, Mrs. Hickman claimed, was obtained when they returned to Marion after being married and was dated to indicate that it was signed before the ceremony took place.

Henry and Willis were released this morning when they provided bond. Mrs. Monroe, said to have been married twice and the mother of two children, is being held in the county jail until she is taken to Marysville. The Hickman girl is in the county juvenile detention home.

newspaper editor and publisher now engaged in business in Marion, appear in a 73-page book printed under the author's personal supervision for distribution among his friends. First copies of the volume were received here yesterday.

The title of this unusual book, artistically printed and bound in cloth, is "Thoughts—In Prose and Poetry." It contains 47 compositions, all but one of which are the work of Mr. Arnold. The one exception is a complimentary preface, written by W. G. Sibley, of Gallit-pollis, former state librarian who has been a close friend of Mr. Arnold many years.

Wordings of Preface
Mr. Sibley, now a newspaper columnist, writes as follows as a part of his preface:

"This little book of addresses—fraternal, memorial, family and business—interspersed with religious essays, and many verse of a reminiscent and moral character, along with brief paragraphs in prose on a variety of topics, is the work of a busy man who has long been in either vocational or occasional contact with printer's ink—editor successively of two county newspapers, and later of the Marion Daily Mirror.

"On the pages which follow will be found the spirit of the author, his feelings of action, and those impulses and thoughts which he deems worthy to be passed on to his family and friends as a part of his intellectual life. He has written himself into every page, and follows Pope's injunction:

God to scan;
"Know thine own self, presume not
The proper study of mankind is man."

Fraternal Addresses
Addresses include those delivered at several Knights of Pythias and Masonic gatherings, a number of family and school reunions and one at a Chamber of Commerce banquet in Durand, Mich. Several separate articles deal with various phases of Masonry, Mr. Arnold being promi-nently identified with that fraternity.
The volume is illustrated with an autographed photo of the author.
Mr. Arnold, whose home is at 352
South Main st., is head of the Cham-berman Coal & Supply Co.

Discovery of Serum Chief Hope in Battle Against Flu

PREVENTIVE SOUGHT BY HEALTH OFFICERS

Say Once Epidemic Gets Strong Hold Little To Do but Watch It

SPREADS BY CONTACTS

Next Report Likely To Show Tremendous Increase in Cases

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 — The chief hope of the Public Health Service officials and other medical scientists who have renewed their investigations of influenza, is the discovery of a serum which will act as a preventive or partial immunity for the disease.

Experts in the office of Surgeon General Hiram S. Cummings said today that in all probability such a serum, or other means of stopping the epidemic such as is now threatening to sweep to every corner of the United States, will be developed.

Added to the experience obtained in the study following the 1918 epidemic will be the results of new investigations now in progress. While the former investigations had some negative results, much information of great value was obtained.

It is its course. Officials said that once an epidemic of flu gets a strong hold on the country there is little to do but to watch it run its course. Even with the most precautions it is impracticable to quarantine communities, or even individuals afflicted.

As long as there is individual contact the disease will spread. For this reason the possibility of a serum rendering the human body less susceptible to flu, is one of the most important objectives of medical science today.

No reports as to the spread of the present epidemic were available today. The Public Health Service has received figures for the week ending Dec. 15 and next week will compile the reported cases by states for the week ending Dec. 22.

Need Complete Figures. Undoubtedly the next report will show a tremendous increase in the number of cases, according to officials, who predicted that the figure will run to a half-million. That means there are more than five times as many cases as there is considerable basis in the reporting of influenza by physicians to their local health boards.

The present epidemic probably will bring about a correction of this condition. Public health officials said that in fighting influenza it is essential to have more complete figures, that the movement of the epidemic may be watched.

Kenton Council To Pass 1929 Budget at Adjourned Meeting

BUDGET INCLUDES WATERWORKS FUND

Sum of $43,947 To Be Raised from General Taxes

AMENDS CODE

New Board Will Include Mayor, City Solicitor and Five Free Holders

KENTON, Dec. 21—The 1929 budget carrying appropriations totaling $43,947 for the operation of the various city departments during the coming year, will be passed at an adjourned meeting of the city council on Jan. 2. John H. Hogan, chairman of the council finance committee, said today.

The above budget total includes $23,750 for the waterworks department which is self-sustaining, leaving $20,197 to come from general taxes. During the last council meeting this year an ordinance was passed authorizing the sale to the highest bidder of a strip of land comprising 4.05 acres and located in Buck Township near the Taylor Creek bridge. The land was declared of no further value to the city. It once contained the old Calhoun well used as a source of supply for city water. It has been dry for the past 15 years.

A second ordinance passed amends a section of the city's new building code providing for the appointment of a board of appeals under the code. The board is to include the mayor, city solicitor and five free holders, one from each ward and one from the city at large. The five members are to serve for periods of from one to five years.

ORGANIZE CLUB

Plan Meeting for Early in New Year at Kenton

KENTON, Dec. 21—With 18 members now enrolled in the newly formed Kenton Flyball club, school for the instruction of pilots will in all probability be opened here during the month of January, it was announced today by W. E. Davis, war time pilot and organizer of the club.

Between now and the opening of school it is quite likely that a suitable field for instruction and landing purposes will be located in close proximity to the city. One of the latest offers of a flying field is that from John Fulton, Jr., & Son, a mile south of here.

Perry Lloyd, Akron, licensed pilot and instructor will arrive Saturday to take over the club organization work here and will have charge of the classes in instruction.

Formal organization of the club, and definite decision on its plans will be completed at a meeting to be held near the first of the year.

A Simplex Red Arrow monoplane, one of the latest models of the Simplex Aircraft Corporation at DeCruze, was expected to arrive in Kenton around noon today and will remain here for three days. It is of the type that will be used by the club here.

According to a government bureau the most hazardous occupations in the United States are those of steel worker, railroad yard man and miner.

Meditations OF A Married Woman

BY HELEN ROWLAND

What a Man Thinks He Likes

WHAT a man thinks he likes in women and what he REALLY likes are two things as distinct and as far removed from each other as the hotel breakfast menu and the hotel dinner card.

Theoretically, of course, he likes the wholesome, simple, practical things on the breakfast menu. But it's the tempting dishes with plenty of spice, sauce and fancy dressing on the dinner card that appear to arouse his enthusiasm.

Any man will tell you that he likes an intelligent, sensible, level-headed girl who can think for herself. Oh, yes, he does—so long as she agrees with all his opinions; always asks his advice and permits him to do all her thinking for her.

Every man will assure you that he hates "a made-up face" and loathes lipsticks and mascara. But just try to flag him with a "sweet, pale mouth" and a shiny nose, and see how far you will get!

Any man will give you to understand that you can be perfectly frank with him. That he likes a straightforward, candid woman, who never flatters him and is not afraid to show her real thoughts and emotions.

Certainly he does! As long as her frankness consists in telling him how wonderful he is. And her (and/or) child's name, never calling over him, never showing a spasm of jealousy and never letting him see "the wheels go round" in her head or her heart.

Every man will assure you that he hates "fancy clothes" and loathes perfume and adores the idea of being seen with a conspicuously dressed woman.

Yet it is not always disapproving that makes him turn around to stare at the dizzy blonde in the sequined hat or the dashing red-haired woman in the black velvet gown and moiré giving him more of a thrill than to dance around with a mannikin in the "last word" from Paris, who attracts as much attention as a circus parade.

Every man will claim that he can spot a man-tamer at sight, and that the high-powered queens have no lure for him. Give him a loyal, whole-hearted, one-man woman!

Yet, unless he happens to be a heart collector himself, almost any man would rather be the last on a popular girl's telephone list than the first in a lonely girl's heart.

In short, theoretically, a man likes the kind of woman he ought to like and wants to like—but when it comes to a matter of election, somehow he nearly always picks "the other kind."

Public Service Corporation
Head Cites Increasing
Utility Investments

BY W. S. COUSINS
(Copyright, 1928, by International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—"I see no reason why the prosperity which this country enjoyed during 1928 should not be continued in the coming year," said Thomas N. McCarter, president of the Public Service Corp., of New Jersey, to International News Service today.

Operating a broad and expanding system of power and light, traction and transportation for more than 50 per cent of the people of the State of New Jersey, with annual gross income of $120,000,000 and assets of close to $300,000,000, the Public Service Corp. ranks high among the utility giants of this country.

Recent compilations show that a total of 25 billion dollars is now invested in utility enterprises in America, divided as follows:

Power and light, $12,500,000,000.
Street railways, $6,000,000,000.
Telephone and telegraph, $3,500,000,000.
Water supply, $3,500,000,000.

"The United States was never in a more favorable position to carry out extensive industrial undertakings," said McCarter, pointing out that capital is plentiful and has a wider distribution among all classes than at any other time in the nation's history. Moreover, he said, a largely increased number of people are alive to the advantage of proper investment, and there is little difficulty in obtaining funds for legitimate enterprises.

McCarter also points out that the definite improvement in financial and trade conditions abroad increases the buying power of foreign nations for our goods, which cannot but have a favorable effect on American business.

GIRL IN HIDING

Designed and Harassed Ruth McConnell Disappears in 'Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 21.—Ruth McConnell, who fled here from the east pursued by an airplane carrying Dr. David Mowbray of Rochester, N. Y., was in hiding somewhere in the city today.

Why the girl hurried here from the east and why she was pursued by the airplane has not yet been definitely cleared up. It has been stated that the girl is in ill health and her relatives wish to keep a close watch over her. Still another theory is that she came west to escape an unwelcome love affair.

Dr. Mowbray, who made an unsuccessful attempt to catch up with the girl in a plane, is said to be in the employ of Kenneth B. Coulter, New York millionaire. He is scheduled to arrive here this morning from Reno. He is coming by train. His plane, which was forced down at Carson City, Nev., yesterday, is also expected to reach here later in the day.

POUR LE SPORT

If she hasn't just the right chapeau for her outdoors costume, milady frequently feels that her afternoon is spoiled—and with good reason. For the sports hat is tremendously important. Here is an attractive design of bottle green sold intended to be worn with the popular trench coat. Trim is cut to achieve the trimming and band is of darker grosgrain ribbon.

MAIL FLIER KILLED IN CRASH AT HURON

Gas Tank Explodes by Impact, Plane and Barn Burn

HURON, Dec. 21.—Leo McGinn, Chicago air mail pilot, is dead today, a martyr to his task of trying to "get through" with the mail.

Flying into the teeth of a blinding blizzard, McGinn crashed into a barn here. The impact exploded his gasoline tank and set fire to both the plane and the barn.

Despite foreboding skies that faced him in the west, the pilot left Cleveland at 5:00 o'clock last night. Near Huron, with a 50-mile gale dead against him, he lost his bearings. The guiding beacon lights of the air route were obscured by the storm.

Chasing the village he dropped flares to get his bearings. But he came to near the earth. His plane crashed into the barn.

Witnesses say the plane and barn leaped into flames almost simultaneously.

To run around with a boy much shorter than he is may make a youth round-shouldered.

Arrangements for Mr. Hoover's stay in Florida have just been completed by Lawrence Richey, confidential secretary, who returned to Washington today from the south. Just how long the president-elect will remain at Miami Beach is not known, but from the arrangements it would appear that he will remain there until shortly before he comes to Washington to be inaugurated on March 4.

YANKS MAY NOT WIN 1929 FLAG

HUGGINS STARTS TO TEAR DOWN TEAM THAT BEAT CARDS

Other American League Clubs Strengthening Nines for Campaign

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—It is actual meaning that no one has the slightest idea about it there probably aren't more than eight people in the country today who don't think the New York Yankees will lose the pennant in 1929. I said eight because there are seven managers in the American league, besides Miller Huggins. The eighth party who doesn't think so is a guy who maybe just doesn't think at all. If you think that sounds like me myself the writer, you are welcome to make the most of it.

Thinking very thoughtfully, I have come to believe that, if the Yankees are to win, again next season they will have to be some what lucky. Unless two or more of a half dozen developments take place, the New York Yankees will find they have to make the good fight they have kept the faith and they are through—thus breaking the habit of a life time—being lulled by the vision of the Yankee team campaigning over the St. Louis Cardinals in the last world series. That was an incident not a permanent demonstration Huggins himself is proving, that he feels this way about it. When he finds he can't put a player out as trading material, he simply throws the man away as one who casts off an old shoe that has served its purpose.

Too many people remember this series and forget the collapse of the Yankees during the late season of 1928. No one remembered either the spectacle of the 1914 Athletics staggering home like a drunken man and father after this one great team had blown a four straight to the Braves. Huggins is quite a man for shouting up sagging foundations between seasons as witness his demolition of the Yankees in 1927, and the winning of the 1928 pennant with a pair of kid pitchers. But if he can reinforce and refurbish his household he fore the 1929 season starts, he will have proved himself to be the greatest field executive in all baseball.

One of the first questions that must be answered has to do with the matter of whether Mark Koenig is a major league third baseman. If he isn't—blat. The next asks whether Lou Larr, could star in a major league shortstop. If he isn't—blat. A third wants to know whether Bill Dickey is a major league catcher. If he isn't—well, that will be just too bad.

Other pressing questions, all demanding answers, concern the matter of Penneck's shoulder, Lazzer's arm and Combs' wrist and if they hang heavily on Huggins' hands, he can occupy them with the sign language in discussing the problem of whether Rhoades from the Cincinnati Reds is a major league pitcher and Henry Johnson is to be the pitcher or his natural rival calls for.

Experiments on Russian railways have shown great fuel economies in the use of Diesel engine locomotives.

IN A NEW ROLE

Not content with being named in All American still star Paul Sullivan (above), University of Pennsylvania promptly appeared at first tryout for the varsity basketball team and displayed an amazing repertoire of tricks. He is conceded a place on the team.

RESUME TALK

Shank's Manager and Richard Will Discuss Southern Fight

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Whether Jack Sharkey will be boxing Steve Link's opponent in the proposed heavy weight bout at Miami Beach Fla., on Feb. 26, may be determined here to day at a conference between Promoter Tex Rickard and Johnny Luckhy, manager of Sharkey. Rickard declared Sharkey was a champion fighter. After the Boston heavyweight declined to go through with the match but later renewed his overtures and offered to let Sharkey bring his own referee.

WITTENBERG CAGERS PUT CRIMP IN ASHLAND FIVE

ASHLAND, Dec. 21.—Wittenberg cagers put a crimp in the winning streak of Ashland College here last night in the five minute overtime period necessary to decide the victor. The final score was 10 to 20. Two long shots by Captain Koenig right forward for the Panthers tied the score at 20 all in the last minute of play. Koenig scored a field goal and Link and Navee dropped in free throws to win the game in the overtime period.

Ashland's string of victories in basketball over the highly touted Wittenberg.

BOARD SUSPENDS SIX ON BASKETBALL SQUAD

WITTENBERG, Dec. 21.—Six players were suspended from the basketball squad here by the board of trustees of Wittenberg College here last night for several charges. It was the first time in the history of the college that so many players were suspended. The charges were that they had been drinking, smoking, and using profanity. The board of trustees met last night to hear the case of the six players. The board decided to suspend the six players for one month. The players are: [Names not clearly legible].

KENT BLAIN OVERBLIN KENT, Dec. 21.—Coming from behind in the final half of a basketball game here last night, Kent State downed Oberlin 24 to 18. It was not until the final two minutes of play that the Kent Staters put the game on ice.

Golf Not Competitive

Only Major Sport in World Where Player Is Not Matching Speed and Accuracy with That of Opponent; Similar to Croquet

HAD you ever noticed that golf is the only major sport in the world without really competitive contest that the man or woman plays not against the other, matching, agility, speed and endurance but rather plays to show his greatest skill and curb his weaknesses?

After all, golf is but a glorified game of croquet for, like in that game men do not combat each other or try to outplay the other in golf. They just play to do their best against their own weaknesses hoping that their best exceeds the best effort of the other. In violent sports like football pugilism and wrestling there is ever the element of combat over the test of the power of a man or a group of men opposed to the other. The test of speed, of skill, of strategy, of resourcefulness, lion hearted courage and the ability to take punishment and still carry on.

In baseball, tennis, hockey, polo, swimming, foot racing, sculling, handball—even in ping pong—there is always combat. A man or a team of men try to outspeed and outgeneral and outwit and outgame the other. Victory goes to those who are most skillful who have the superior speed, the greater strength and who are the better schooled in strategy and have the finer sense of physical courage.

But so much is not true in golf. As far as actual combat is concerned a man is in no better flight playing alone and trying to make a good score than he is when walloping the course in company of a rival. The golfer, whether going it solo or in a foursome is ever playing against himself, his own weaknesses.

There is no more in combative contest with his rival than is a croquet player for there never is physical clash over a ball for brown never the necessity for speed and never the need for cunning that will lure him into some trap which puts him at your mercy.

And yet this game, ridiculed and jeered at years ago and placed in the same category as croquet within a few generations has come from the north to a place where it numbers more actual players than any other team sport in America—or in the world.

All of which perhaps proves what one of its earliest devotees said. Golf requires that a man control his muscles and his nerves and his temper. It necessitates schooling in co-ordination of eye, hand and mind. And because it forces a man to play against his own weaknesses to improve himself it ever leads him on to play—and play—so that he can prove to himself that he is as good as he thinks he is.

AND because man—and woman—like nothing better than to demonstrate improvement first to themselves and then to others golf beckons to them and when they follow and embrace it, golf clings such man and such woman in such a way that death alone can shatter the union.

ALL-IRISH CARD IS SLATED IN GARDEN

O'Kelley and Maloney Will Mix Gloves Tonight in Heavyweight Event

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Con O'Kelley, fresh from the oval and Shammas Maloney, a brother of a boy from Boston will exchange rather telling cards tonight in the first all Irish heavyweight main event ever staged at the new Madison Square Garden.

Each tough Con and Shammas are not home talent the class will rather to see them fresh each other. When two Irishmen fight there is generally some excitement. Maloney is an 8 to 5 favorite over O'Kelley on the strength of his experience and recent add arguments.

The Postman however may have to score a knockout if he is to add O'Kelley's belt to the list of lifted belts of Jimmy Fiske and Andy Mitchell. The O'Kelley person is a serious boxer, a light fire in a heavy weight. He has had only two fights in this country but in both he proved to be a successful ring animal with a confusion repertoire of punches.

While O'Kelley seems to lack the 'killer' instinct and specialties on boxing skill more than weight of punch he is on most of his high as Ireland's best amateur heavyweight. By stopping his opponents and by also having knocked out some professional who tried well on the other side.

PHANTOM RETURNS

Whether Paavo Nurmi the 'Phantom' I intend to race professionally, sell automobiles or merely arrange for Finland's training quarters for 1932 Olympic games couldn't be learned as he came up New York bay aboard the S. S. Rochambeau. Here's a character study of the great runner.

"RED LETTER DAY" WHEN I FOUND MODERN KONJOLA

Grateful Man Secured His First and Only Relief from This New Medicine.

MR. C. R. HANSEN

"How can I ever express my gratitude for Konjola, the medicine I have needed," said Mr. C. R. Hansen, Room No. 1, Beilstein Bldg., Sandusky, Ohio.

"I searched in vain for relief from stomach trouble. All I ate soured and fermented, caused gas bloating, heart palpitation and many other ugly symptoms. My sleep was disturbed and morning found me as tired as the night before. I felt strength slipping from me. I lost my ambition and work became a drudgery."

"It was a red letter day in my life when I found Konjola. I started on the treatment and gained benefits almost immediately. Four bottles did the work. My stomach is in great shape. I want to eat everything and do without suffering afterward. What a medicine Konjola is, to do a thing like this in less than a month. I would like all the world to know of my remarkable success in my stubborn case. Konjola is different from any other stomach remedy in this section. It contains twenty-two juices extracted from natural plants, which incorporate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels in a more healthy action. The effect of this Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that have been going on for years. At the same time, many weak and rundown systems have been restored to a new state of health through this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product, until now Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this section. Konjola is sold in Marion at Stump & Sons Pharmacy and by all the best druggists throughout this section."

WIN AIR LAURELS

Just like the hero in a Horatio Alger romance, Dick James (above), 16, came home to glory and substantial recognition after his great adventure. He was the first boy under 21 to fly across the United States, receiving, for his feat, a $1,000 prize and a medal at the hands of Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York.

FACE CHARGES

Young Men Fined Not Guilty in Morrow County Court

MT. GILEAD, Dec. 21.—Two young men, D. D. Nuss, 19, of Knox county, and Oscar Zembach, 20, of Harmony township, this county, face larceny charges as the result of 15 turkeys being stolen from Mac Spillars, a farmer residing near Chasterville. The turkeys were stolen Tuesday night, about midnight and were later sold in Newark, netting the thieves $101.15.

At a hearing before W. M. Kaufman in the justice court here today, the boys pleaded not guilty and were bound over to the grand jury on bonds of $500, furnished by their fathers. Zembach was also charged with carrying concealed weapons, the sheriff, Leslie Tischer, finding a revolver on him. Counsel for the defendants brought out the point that no warrant had been made and that the sheriff had appropriated the money for the turkeys without any right in law to do so.

Mt. Gilead Kiwanians Hear Talk By Hugh Diamond

Various points he brought to the attention of the club.

MT. GILEAD, Dec. 21.—Hugh Diamond, a Kiwanian from the Gallon club, and probably one of the most versatile entertainers in this Kiwanis district, added his ready wit and carefree philosophy to the Kiwanis luncheon Thursday noon at the Lottala Inn. He gave a talk to the club touching on many subjects but dwelling principally on sociability and friendship. He played on his life and gave a few songs in addition to his regular talk, weaving them in as a part of his entertainment.

He not only entertained the club with his unfailing wit but also gave them his optimistic philosophy in his talk yesterday. He pointed to the advantages and almost the necessity of an hour such as the Kiwanis club provides, and said he always felt that he was "in the right pew" when with a club of this nature. He said that the satisfaction given in way of sociability and friendship was invaluable. He quoted several phrases of poetry to illustrate the various points he brought to the attention of the club.

World Getting Better
He expressed his belief that the world was "getting better every day" and said that the young people and the world were not moving too fast, but that the old people were not keeping pace. He said he was doing his best to keep up with the times, and also said that when we could do this we were dead.

Winding up his talk with his usual style, he said he did not know whether he was going to live or die, but he was going to live to the full extent of the present.

Secretary J. B. White, in behalf of the schools, urged all Kiwanians to attend the Christmas program to be given tonight in Levering hall by the pupils of the local schools.

The next meeting of the club will be the last at which Judge C. H. Wood will preside as president. He will be succeeded at the first meeting of 1929 by Dr. W. B. Robinson, who was recently elected.

DIES OF WOUNDS
Patrolman Second Victim of Fatal Gun Battle

MARTINS FERRY, Dec. 21.—Two men are dead today (from bullet wounds suffered yesterday. Patrolman Peter Reddy, 37, died during the night due to wounds inflicted by a gun in the hands of Thomas O. Smith, 20, mill worker. Smith was instantly killed during a gun battle with Patrolman Reddy and George Cusick, which ensued when the officers attempted to arrest him.

Smith was wanted on an assault complaint filed by Miss Alvin Lott, whom he is alleged to have beaten. The gun battle occurred at Smith's home. He was in a garage when the officers arrived and instead of surrendering, opened fire. The officers returned the shots. Reddy fell mortally wounded, and a few minutes later Smith was found dead in the garage with a bullet through the heart.

with local employees of the Ohio Associated Telephone Co. as hosts Mrs. Ima Knight, Mrs. W. A. Griffith and Ralph Bennett were a committee in charge of the immediate arrangements for the annual event.

The party was from 6:45 o'clock when the children were called for at their homes in cars driven by the employees and taken to the hall for dinner, until 9:30 o'clock when they were taken home in cars.

In the upstairs rooms an "Our Gang Comedy" donated the company by John Huerbner of the Marion theater, was shown and a Bab pond from which each child drew a toy was enjoyed. Later, Santa Claus presented each child with a gift of underwear and hosiery in addition to toys and candy.

The Oakland Concert orchestra furnished music during the evening. There was an increase in the attendance at the party this year, over that of last year.

ON THE Streets of Marion WITH STAR STAFF

STILL GOING

An interesting development of the Marion Life club organized here early last fall is the Junior Symphony orchestra of about 12 pieces which has weekly practices Saturday morning in the Marion Business College rooms.

The orchestra is under the direction of E. C. Fields and J. B. McNeil, who conduct practices for members who are taking private lessons, free of charge. Others pay for a work for the privilege of being a member of the music group. The orchestra is now composed of trumpet, trombone, clarinet and piano. A piano and violin player will be added when practices resume after the holidays, and at 10 o'clock every Saturday morning.

STIRS 'EM UP

Many strange and novel means are taken by organizations in getting their members out to meetings. One of the ones used by W. C. Brown, president of the Marion Business College, as he terms himself to get his college ball players at the Wednesday afternoon sessions of the Business Men's club is perhaps the most unusual the writer has ever read.

As a matter of fact, the Business Men's college ball league is a most unusual organization in itself. The age of the participants runs from 20 on to 50 years or more. At these weekly entertainments on the Y. M. C. A. doors one can see all styles of weights of men in gym suits of various descriptions that would send a Parisian designer into a series of convulsions.

In addition to himself, Brown has his team six other men of more or less college ball ability. In his letter when they attend at the next match, he calls them by the following names: loud thugman, diction, cheerleader, Vastorian statistician, class and traffic expert. They why these names could not be learned—perhaps they are as good as any.

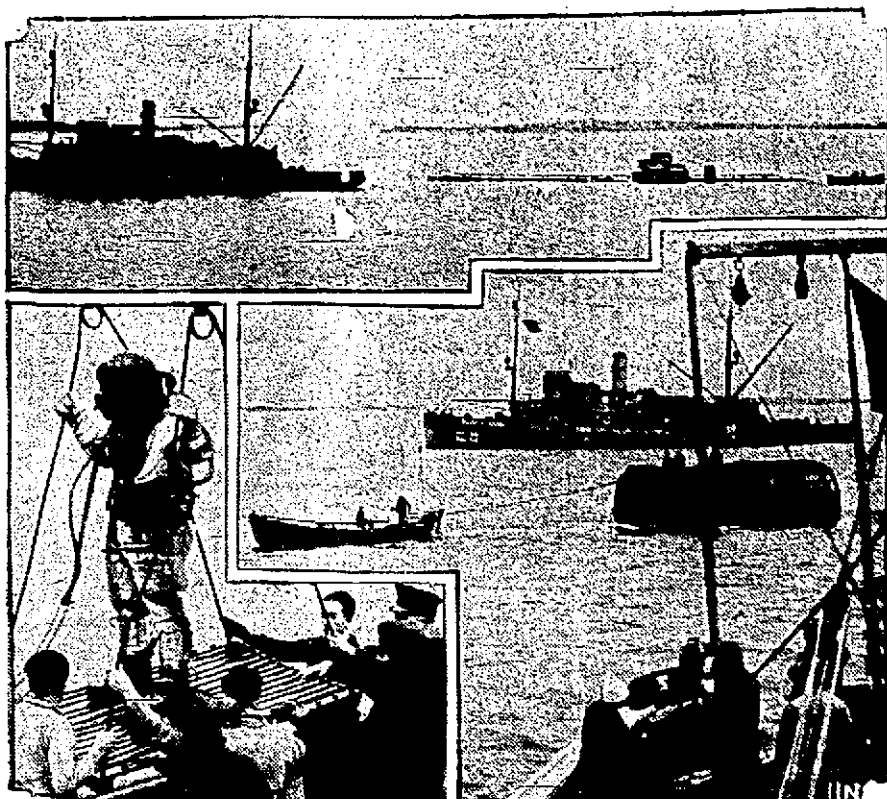

Starting out the letter he addresses to team members as "Sirs and Madams." He then proceeds in a proper fashion to tell them of the awful defeat suffered by team members. Why is this? Taking the words of his letter, the cause is this: "My friends, I blush with mortification as I record the absence of your headiness, diction and class." He continues to extol the trials and tribulations of various team members, including himself.

The writer is wondering how he is going to explain to his team at the next session of the league the why and wherefore of the discomfiting shoulder that will keep him out of the lineup for several weeks at the next.

S-4 SINKS AGAIN—FOR SAFETY

The submarine S-4, "steel coffin" in which 40 officers and men of the U. S. navy died as craft lay on the bottom of the sea off Provincetown, Mass., is now a "safety laboratory." fitted up solely for purpose of determining ways and means of saving life. The photo above shows her as she made the first dive in her new role; below, left to right, Diver Edward Yeadon preparing to go below and attach chains, and a view showing pontoons being towed into position for tests off New London, Conn.

timed remark, "Oh, I've just finished my Christmas shopping."

One was seen not long ago in a local department store. Purchasing one last tie, he drew a breath of relief, edged further into the group at this particular bargain counter and won the dissatisfaction of every one with a triumphant remark regarding his own conclusion of the trials of Christmas shopping.

It isn't the remark alone that arouses one's ire, it's the extreme air of satisfaction that accompanies it.

GIVE PROGRAM

Pupils of Glenwood School appear in Christmas Entertainment.

Pupils of the Glenwood school enjoyed a Christmas program and party, arranged by the teachers, this afternoon at the school. A feature show of 50 colored slides telling "The Story of Jesus" was given, after which the program opened with singing of "Joy to the World."

Mrs. Gladys Harris' pupils presented Luke's Christmas story after which Miss Alice Wade and Cleland Parr, two youngsters taught by Miss Mildred Wetters, sang "What Through the Olive Trees," a duet. "The Boy's Theme" was given by William Thompson and John Grimes, two pupils from Miss Ruth Aris' room, after which Misses Marcela Bolander and Bernice Clark, Peter Zwolle and Richard Walters of Miss Elizabeth Crissinger's room presented a playlet, "Junior Santa." "Oh Little Town of Bethlehem" was sung by the school, and a recitation, "A Free Gift," was given by a pupil of Miss Mary Hartley, Verne Emerson. "Star of the East" was sung by four of Miss Edith Zeller's pupils. Misses Virginia Sullivan, Janice Jones, Adeline Roseberry and Elizabeth Fox.

Miss Wanda Redmond of Miss Florence McColey's room was presented in a monologue, "Santa and Fractions" and a recitation, "Santa's Lunch" was given by Miss Katherine Frank of Miss Maud Stout's room. "We Three Kings of the Orient" was sung by Miss Bernice Kerr's pupils and a recitation, "The Bell's Message" was given by Gail Thompson, a pupil of Miss Ella Kiger. The program closed with singing of "Hark the Herald Angels Sing." The youngsters then returned to their various rooms and were given a Christmas treat.

DENY THAT SMALL CHURCH IS DOOMED

Sharp Division of Opinion Exists Among Prominent Pastors of U. S.

BY JAMES L. KUGAILEN
(Copyright, 1928, by International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 21—Sharp division of opinion exists among prominent pastors of the United States on the question: "Is the small church doomed?" This was revealed today by a poll taken by International News Service in which church leaders of the nation expressed their opinion of the statement of John R. Rockefeller, Jr., that the day of the small church is over as far as New York City is concerned.

Mr. Rockefeller was commenting on the $5,000,000 Broadway Temple, the "skyscraper church" now under construction and toward which project he has contributed $250,000. The new temple is to be 30 stories. Mr. Rockefeller sees a need for the skyscraper church that will dominate the skyline in big cities, thus giving to religion a material as well as spiritual dominance.

No: Says Almon
Almon S. Almon of Los Angeles celebrated pastor of the Temple which has a membership of 15,000, takes the view that the little church is not doomed, contending that "the earnest desire to worship is all the dramatization the church needs."

Dr. Frank Norris, nationally known fundamentalist and pastor of the First Baptist church of Fort Worth, Texas, disagrees with Mr. McPherson, however, and agrees with Mr. Rockefeller. He said:

"I favor the skyscraper church. The new testament plan was one big church to the city. Then, too, it is in accordance with the development of world business. Little churches, of course, have a proper field in small towns."

Bishop H. J. McKell of the Episcopal diocese of Atlanta vigorously asserts that skyscraper churches and pretentious edifices are not necessary to give spiritual dominance.

Sees Little Value
Sharp division to this opinion is expressed by Dr. James R. Thompson of Fort Worth, Texas, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who thinks that the dramatic value of the skyscraper church is doubtful except to visitors and newcomers.

Dr. Paul Butler, noted Chicago evangelist, and pastor of the Gospel Tabernacles, declared the small church is "as much needed as the small home." He expressed the belief that skyscraper churches will be in vogue for a while but eventually will pass out.

Dr. John Timothy Stone of Chicago, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church, said the small church "is here to stay." He added that "the close contact of the minister and members is important and inspiring."

"The skyscraper church is still a matter of experiment," said Dr. L. P. Anderson, pastor of the First Christian church of Fort Worth. "No doubt the tendency is toward the downtown church. There is no question but that the large church can do the most efficient work."

PLAN BENEFIT SHOW FOR POOR CHILDREN

Toys Received at Palace Theater To Be Distributed for Christmas

Plans have been completed for a charity benefit show sponsored by Albert Sindlinger, manager of the Palace theater, and employees of the house, to be given at 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning at the theater. Admission to the entertainment, which is open to both adults and children, is a toy with a valuation of 10 cents or more. These toys will be given to Captain Percy Holden of the Salvation Army to be distributed to poor children of the city for Christmas.

The picture, "We're In the Navy Now," featuring Noah Berry and Raymond Hatton, will be shown through the courtesy of the Paramount company and the services of the operators, musicians, ushers, and other employees of the theater will be donated as their contribution to the Christmas project.

How to Escape FLU

- 1 Avoid so far as possible the places where flu germs are most apt to be; crowded cars; public meeting places; warm, stuffy rooms.
- 2 Be careful of close contact with others and beware of all coughers and sneezers; breathe through the nose.
- 3 Get lots of rest. Eat plenty of citrus fruits. Keep the bowels open. Take every precaution to keep in good physical condition, so your system will have high resistance against germs.

Above all, avoid catching cold. Any cold may be the forerunner of flu. Take Bayer Aspirin at the first sign of a cold and you can ward it off. Gargle with Bayer Aspirin at first sign of sore throat as this will remove the infection.

- 5 If you have any reason to suspect even a touch of flu, call your doctor.

AMERICAN OPERATES PARIS TOURIST TAXI

Former Soldier Gives Inside View to French Life with Lone Cab

Paris, Dec. 31.—An inside view of the actual life of a few of the most interesting artists and writers living in Paris is now afforded to visitors to the gay city by a young American who built from Detroit, Mich. George Deydare who settled in Paris, after serving in the Canadian Army, has an old style car which just holds five persons. He meets the visitors at their hotel or restaurant after dinner and drives them first to the famous "Belle" of Montmartre or to the studios of sculptors or artists in oil, black or white or any other medium. Here, although it is night, the visitors see the artist as he works in his own surrounding. His "thing" models in none his sketches in plaster, charcoal or color and here the guests will have a little glass of good wine champagne or liquor, just as the artist would offer to any of his friends.

A visit is also paid to the real "down and outer," the very poor who cannot afford a roof of his own over his head but pays a few sous for a night's shelter from cold and rain.

Later, calls are made to the amusement places of the artists where they find relaxation and distraction with their fellows and models. These are essentially Parisian dance halls, extremely picturesque and yet every bit as "proper" as any of those of the city set. There are also quaint cellars hinged many feet below the street level, where the music and poetry are furnished by the artists, their selves trying to make enough sous to buy their paints.

-o- The New Book -o-

BY FRANCES JENNINGS

FIFTEEN of Hugh Walpole's best short stories are included in his new book, "The Silver Thorn," which takes its title from a few lines in "The Duchess of Parma." "The Silver Thorn" was the consolation prize. It was the best prize of all—but that was because he liked best the one who lost the race.

Not any one of the 15 stories is outstanding—they are all exquisite character studies, each one of them representative of the skilled novelist they represent. All are charmingly told with the strong understanding of humanity which is the basis of Walpole's success.

From "The Little Donkeys with the Crimson Saddles" to the "Bachelors," the concluding story in the book, they are all enjoyable—some entertaining, some pathetic, some terrible, none merely amusing and nearly all touched with humor.

Follow Same Theme

"The Little Donkeys" and "Chinese Horses" are variations of the same theme, that of a woman of middle age who, though she would be married, finds it impossible to give up her settled life for a man for whom she has admiration but no great affection. "The Taro" and "The Enemy" are pathetic tales of the uncontrollable dislike of one for another who has an equally genuine liking for him. "The Licking" too, is pathetic—and little tale in which a browbeating wife goes beyond the point of endurance and loses her husband.

"Old Elizabeth" is a charming portrait of an old woman and "The Silver Old Fool" tells of an old Canon who longed for love and companionship and is disappointed. "The Tiger" is gruesome and tragic and "Major Wilburham" is the character study of an individual whom the war transformed from an ordinary man into a gentleman of culture.

Variety of Selections

Others included are "No Unkindness Intended," the sorrowful tale of a lonely clergyman and an unwanted dog, "Ecstasy," which concerns a husband, wife and a picture, "The Dore,"

BEST SELLERS OF PAST WEEK

FICTION

"The Wanderer," by Alan Fowler.

"The Case of Sergeant Grisham," by Arnold Zweig.

"Lilly Christine," by Michael Arlen.

"The Father," by Katharine Brown.

"Point Counter Point," by Aldous Huxley.

"Pentecost Place," by Eleanor Chase.

NON-FICTION

"Elizabeth and Essex," by Lytton Strachey.

"Voltaire—Genius of Mockery," by Victor Thaddeus.

"Meet General Grant," by W. E. Woodward.

"The Enemy in Ambush," tale of an English officer in Moscow, and "Bachelors."

In this little volume one finds all the Walpole characteristics which have made his novels and stories so famous. There is the character study, the phantasy, the sophisticated and the practical—all rolled into one engrossing book.

FAMILY LIFE IS PORTRAYED IN STORY

KATHARINE HOLLAND BROWN has written in "The Father" an excellent story of family life in which she presents the story of a man who "helped Lincoln to see."

Woven into the story are a most ill-assorted collection of human with the father, John Stafford, friend of Emerson and fanatical abolitionist as the central figure. His quaint daughter, Mercy Rose, who is destined to become a prairie mother before the close of the book, also proves an enjoyable character.

SUGGESTED FOR CHRISTMAS BUYING

INCLUDED in the third of a series of books suggested for Christmas buying are the following:

Fiction: "The Strange Case of Miss Annie Sprague," Louis Bromfield's story of a Middle Western spinster who died in the odor of sanctity in Italy; "All Kneeling," Anne Parrish's story of a pretty ecstasist; and "The Hounds of God," a re-working of the theme of Kingsley's "Westward Ho!"

Non-fiction: Emil Ludwig's biographical study of the greatest of German writers, "Goethe," "John Brown's Body," an epic poem of the Civil War by Stephen Vincent Benet, and for children, Howard B. Garis' story of two youthful performers in a vaudeville show, "Tuffy, the Clown."

MR. GILEAD GIRL'S BOOK RANKS HIGH

"She Walks in Beauty," the comparatively new novel of a Mr. Gilead girl, Dawn Lowell, was chosen as one of the 25 best novels of 1923 in a list compiled by The New York Times. Her latest book, "The Brille House," will be published by Brentano's in February.

AUTHOR HAS HAD VARIED EXPERIENCE

H. W. Freeman, whose "Joseph and His Brethren," the Book-of-the-Month club novel for January will be released to the general public Jan. 10, is an Englishman, World War veteran and ex-farm laborer. He spent five months in writing this.

WELLS RETURNS TO FORMER STYLE

In "Mr. Blitsworthy on Rumpole Island," H. G. Wells returns to the vein which characterized his earlier writing, that of adventure and romance in strange places.

"FARM TWINS" JUVENILE LIST

LUCY FITCH PERKINS' "Farm Twins" heads a list of juvenile best sellers for the last three weeks, compiled by McClure's. Others included are "Here, There and Everywhere," Dorothy Aldis, "Abe Lincoln Grows Up," Carl Sandburg, "Willy Pogany's Mother Goose" and "Dr. Doolittle in the Moon," Hugh Lofting.

Listed among the fiction is "Fall Flight," by Eleanor Giercke, "Penelope's Man," by John Erskine, "Point Counter Point," by Aldous

Huxley and non-fiction, "Meet General Grant," by W. E. Woodward, "My Autobiography," by Benito Mussolini, and "Raiders of the Deep," by Lowell Thomas.

SMITH BUSY IN HOLLYWOOD

Wallace Smith, who has written short stories, novels and orders of execution for Mexican bandit chiefs, is now busily turning out screen stories in Hollywood, his most recent one being an adaptation of "Bulldog Drummond." His latest novel is "Tiger's Mate," published by Putnam this fall.

FOURTH NOVEL UNDER WAY

Barry Benefield, author of "The Children-Wagon Family," has a fourth novel in the making which will be published next autumn.

WRITES ROMANCE OF PRINCESSES

"Royal Elizabeths" is the title of a new book by Mrs. Thornton Cook, whose "Her Majesty" proved popular. It is a romance of the five Princesses Elizabeth of the past.

THE publication of Heintano's first of the "Confessions of Jean-Jacques Rousseau" in two volumes brings to mind a remark of Thomas Carlyle, who said, "There was a man named Jean-Jacques Rousseau who wrote a book called the 'Social Contract.' The French aristocracy laughed at the book, but their skins went to bind the second edition."

Carlyle was alluding to tannery that was located near the guillotine. As this death-dealing machine ended the lives of the French aristocrats their bodies were sent to the tannery and the skins were tanned and cured. Many of these skins were used to bind current books.

This new edition, however, offers no such attraction—the binding is red cloth dyed in honest insect juice.

ROMANCE REVEALED IN RUSSIAN HISTORY

Royal passions that have stained the pages of history, lover's intrigues that altered the destiny of Russia, are related in the romance-tinted chapters from history presented by V. Poulakov in his new book, "When Lovens Hated Russia."

PLAY OPENS ON BROADWAY

With much critical acclaim has opened on Broadway the play made from Edith Wharton's novel, "The Age of Innocence." Katherine Cornell and Rolfe Peters have the leading roles.

HOLT BOOKS DUE SOON

HENRY HOLT & CO. will publish early in the new year, "Rabelais," by Anatole France, "Understanding Women," by K. A. Wich-Knudsen, "This Delicate Creature," by Con O'Leary, and "Mass Murder," by L. C. Southwate.

PRESENTS STUDY OF CHURCHILL

In contrast with his more stolid associates, Winston Churchill is a spirited and likeable figure as described by the Earl of Oxford and Asquith, K. G., in his "Memories and Reflections, 1832-1927."

Interesting Sidelights on History Are Brought Out in School Pupils' Letters

PRISCILLA, the renowned "Name of John Allen writing, to Misses Rose, of fame in American history, dear friends writing to each other about the Boston Tea Party in 1773 a letter from Queen Elizabeth of England to her sister, Lady Moravia—in fact, letters from about every notable in history worth mentioning, were handed to Cecil Gabler, English teacher at Central Junior high school when he asked that his ninth grade English students either assume that they were characters in history or imagine themselves present at some historical event and write a letter about it. Mr. Gabler received 32 letters, all of them interesting, more so than others, and many bringing out facts that his students evidently passed up when they wrote their accounts.

The letter writing is a part of the required high school English work, but the idea of the historical background was purely original with the instructor, and brought some interesting results both in the form of letters and in their contents.

Miss Gabler's letter about the Boston Tea Party was written by Miss Clara Clark, who represented herself as Miss Rose writing to Priscilla Smith. The body of the letter was as follows:

"I have been very busy and so have not had time to answer your last letter.

Most of my time has been occupied in making a national flag. George Washington came to me, and wanted a flag made. The colors were to be red, white and blue. He suggested that a six pointed star be used, but finally gave in when I said it would be better to use a five pointed star. There are to be 13 stars, made of white on a background of blue, placed in a circle in the left-hand corner. As soon as he left I began work at once. I used it for the red stripes. In an old trunk upstairs was a blue coat which was all right for the blue field and for the stars and which stripes I tore up an old shirt.

"I have two more stars to sew on, so will close as I want to get them on before George Washington comes here. Your friend, Miss Rose."

The letter came from a student whose name was not given, was from Queen Elizabeth to her sister, Lady Moravia.

of the letter show Elizabeth to be a gold digger in every respect, a slant on the queen, which, of course, is not true in historical data.

The second paragraph of the letter begins: "The best part of it is when we were not from Spain or France, but from the land of the sun and of the rainbow, or a twinkling, ruby or even a gold chain. Then is when I try to be the coolest and most graceful, but the other day I forgot myself and said, 'Go, white!'"

The letter continues, telling of the gallant act of that famous lady, Mrs. Sir Walter Raleigh. The last paragraph is also quite interesting and might be of interest to those who read history. "There, the clock just struck 7 and I will have to stop and put on my new blue velvet trimmed in Spanish as I am dining with a count from France and expect some jewelry. I heard rumors of a white jade one eye's beauty."

Miss Gabler's letter was a lively and colorful account of the Boston Tea Party, written, as one William Wadsworth to John Clark, 100 Oak Square Philadelphia Pa.

Priscilla's letter was a student whose name was not given, was from Queen Elizabeth to her sister, Lady Moravia.

ple of Salem, Mass., to convict the lovely Priscilla Smith of witchcraft when the writer is certain that Priscilla was to the woods to gather herbs, and not to practice witchcraft, as the villagers believed.

Mr. Gabler enjoyed to the fullest the grading of these letters, and believes that it is one of the most successful ideas carried out in his department of English.

RADIO UP EIGHT

United States Steel Sells at Highest Price During Recovery

BY W. S. COUSINS
N. S. Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Industrial stocks started two to eight points at the beginning of trading today, carrying forward the rally which has been in progress since the middle of the week.

At 9:30 Radio was up eight points and United Aero traveled the same distance to 200. Radio has thus recovered nearly 100 points of its recent losses and Wright Aero 61 points.

At 10:00, $65,000,000 was squeezed out of the total of brokers' loans, according to the reserve board's weekly report. This makes a decline of $21,000,000 in two weeks and would ease up the money market.

United States Steel sold at the highest price on the recovery and Central Alloy was the most active of the industrial stocks.

Industrial stocks encountered considerable opposition in the second hour in the form of profit-taking and short selling and the whole list settled down to a lower price level.

Walter Brothers Pictures, an exception, held steady at the highest price on the recovery and Central Alloy was the most active of the industrial stocks.
